Headlines

Frequently, users will see only a shortened version of your profile. Your headline gives you a way to sum up your professional "identity" in a short phrase.

When you create your account, we provide a headline for you, but your own headline will be much more effective than the one we select.

Some examples:

- Creative director and product designer
- Patent Law expert
- Entrepreneur and Internet Visionary
- Hands-on retail manager

Notes on Summary

Overview

Your Professional Overview should give a brief description of what you have done, what you are doing, and the kinds of things you are interested in. Some examples:

- Corporate generalist attorney with substantial in-house legal experience. High premium on providing preemptive legal support in French or English. Focus on intellectual property, contract drafting and union negotiation.
- Financial exec with broad experience in all aspects of accounting, auditing and financial management. Direct experience with real estate, financial consulting and venture capital. Interested in early-stage startups as well as companies "on the bubble."
- Application Developer, Database Administrator, and Project Manager in a wide variety of business applications. Particularly interested in client/server and relational database design using Oracle, Sybase, and MS-SQL Server. Always interested in migration projects, as well as close interaction with the DB manufacturers.
- Licensed Psychotherapist focused on providing individual and couples counseling services. Specializing in work related stress, womens' issues and family mediation services. Interested in academic work as well, and perhaps advising corporations on mental health issues.

Specialties

This field should mention a few particular skills or experiences you consider your professional specialties. Some examples:

- Competitive analysis, financing, franchising, mergers and acquisition
- Nonprofits, real estate law, tax planning, code compliance
- Film output, 4-color process, pre-press, storyboarding
- XML, HTML, JavaScript, usability, CSS, WYSIWYG layout tools

Application Developer

2007 – Present • 10 yrs • Longmont,CO

NSIS (Nullsoft Scriptable Install System) is a professional open source system to create Windows installers. It is available from: http://nsis.sourceforge.net/Main_Page

I have learned how to use it to create a compact install file for each of my free-ware applications. I have tested all four installation packages on Windows XP, Vista and Windows 7 in their 32Bit and 64Bit systems. Each install file uses internal logic to detect 'AtLeastWinVista' and make the adjustments needed.

I have also learned how to incorporate reg-free COM installations that copy the needed support files (.dll, .ocx, .olb, .tlb, ...) into the Install Directory and make them available to the application without altering the Windows Registry. This is important to assure that the application does not interfere with other applications nor can be disturbed by other applications on your PC.

I also learned how to create a custom page to explain these requirements.

The Install files are compact and work rapidly. I have created a How To Install slideshow and placed it on my website.

QueryMgr - Unit Testing - SurvyMgr
I have been further enhancing the unit testing of the reusable VB6 code with VBUnit3 with plans to also use the SQL query storage and report generation features of QueryMgr in a more data-driven version of SurvyMgr.
In the creation of some of the newer Functions(), I have followed a more test-driven approach by creating the Unit Testing code before the actual implementation code.
The goal of the more data-driven version of SurvyMgr is to let the customer not only create their data entry forms, but define some of the form custom data types as well as specifying SQL queries to generate their custom reports. I will also need to write and publish some instructions.
This will permit non-profit organizations be free to make use of the tools without dependence on me for customizations.
